Practice without feedback is just repetition.

01

No one is listening

You play the chord. Nobody tells you the B string was muted or the change came in late. YouTube cannot hear you.

02

Every lesson forgets you

Apps reset to the same beginner path. A teacher remembers where you left off. Software never did, until now.

03

The tone knowledge is scattered

Pickups, cables, amps and speakers explained across forums, videos and half a book. The signal chain deserves one place.

Strumly is the coach, the toolkit, the book and the guides in one app, built by a guitarist who spent two decades chasing tone before building rights infrastructure.

Coach, toolkit, book, guides, API. One app.

COACH

AI guitar coach

Real-time chord feedback, practice drills and ear training. It remembers your last session and picks up from there.

TOOLKIT

Free toolkit

Tuner, chord and scale references, timing tools. Free, in the browser.

BOOK

The Signal Chain

The full history of guitar amplifiers, effects and the pursuit of electric tone. 66 chapters, 111 lessons.

GUIDES

20 guides

Tone, signal chain and rights, including the eight migrated signal-chain guides at /guides.

Play. Get feedback. Drill. Come back.

01

Play

Pick a chord, a change or a riff.
The coach listens in real time
through the browser.

02

Feedback

Which strings rang, which were muted, whether the change landed on time.

03

Drill

A practice drill built for the weakness it just heard, plus ear training.

04

Remember

The session is saved. Next time, the coach starts where you left off.

Pro keeps the full practice history across sessions. Free keeps the coach.

Five hosts, three properties, one owner per job.

Strumly's practice path is the path with the AI coach. Its beginner and routine guides hand readers to GuitarHub for lessons and a schedule, and GuitarHub sends players back for the coach. No two properties chase the same query.

The eight guides that lived at guides.guitar.solutions now resolve to Strumly with slug-preserving redirects.

Pickups, cables, amp, speaker. And then the royalty.

The complete edition of The Signal Chain lives at guitar.solutions: the full history of guitar amplifiers, effects and the pursuit of electric tone, with a music IP rights chapter no other guitar book includes. Standard, Deluxe and Workbook editions.

A pay-per-call music API, in USDC or by card.

Strumly exposes its music tools to autonomous agents through x402 and Stripe. An agent reads the OpenAPI contract, pays per call, and gets the result; a developer does the same with a card. The endpoints are listed alongside the Suede music and video API in the awesome-x402 repository.
