September 2026

Four ways to get stuck. One card for each.

01

Words

For when every line
sounds like a greeting
card.

02

Melody and harmony

For when your fingers
keep playing yesterday's song.

03

Rhythm and groove

For when everything you make marches in place.

04

Tone and texture

For when the sound is clean and dead.

Adaptive creative training: daily AI-powered constraints target your weakest creative dimension, track your progress, and capture provenance for every session.

The House Deck, and a bandmate who listens.

The House Deck deals one creative constraint a night: the same card for every musician on earth. Muse is the musician companion on the other side of the card, for gear talk, songwriting help and creative conversation. Every night has a permanent page; every session is captured with provenance.

The card

One constraint, dealt at midnight, shared by everyone.

The companion

Talk it through: lyrics, harmony, gear, arrangement.

The record

Session provenance, so the night's work is yours and dated.

The archive

Every past night at /night/YYYY-MM-DD, fully static.

Midnight deal. Flip. Talk. Make. Keep.

01

Midnight

The House Deck deals tonight's card to every musician at once.

02

Flip

Read the constraint. Words, melody, rhythm or tone.

03

Talk

Work it through with Muse: what it means, where to start, what to try.

04

Make

Write the verse, find the change, chase the sound.

05

Keep

The session is captured with provenance and tracked against your weakest dimension.

No paywall mid-session. The card is never behind one at all.

Muse tells you where it fails.

The docs openly disclose the AI's failure modes at `/docs/limitations`, a real expertise-and-trust signal rather than a marketing page. Today's card is client-rendered, but every past night has a fully static, crawlable permalink, and the site allows every major AI crawler by name.
